RED SKELTON has always claimed that he is loved madly by children and dogs. This, at least, proves half of his rash statement. The dogs appear with Red in his next comedy, "Excuse My Dust." It's possible that the poohies are hovering around to demand a raise of an extra bone for their week's work.

Don't Complain Later

Albertans have been doing lots of talking about taxes lately, despite the fact few of us have any real idea of actually how much taxes contribute to our cost of living.

The cost of what we buy always includes a lot of taxation and it is going to include a lot more taxation if the present plan is adopted of amending the Constitution so that the provincial governments can levy a hidden sales tax of up to three per cent.

This is supposed to be for the purpose of financing old age pensions, to be paid by the Provinces to those in need, up to the age of seventy. Of course, no one reminds the public that the Province of Quebec has said that since it is a law in Alberta, the St. Pauls, it would not use this plan, or that the Province of Nova Scotia says that it does not need this 3 per cent, or that the Provinces of British Columbia and New Brunswick say that 3 per cent would not be enough, or that the Province of Alberta, with its enormous revenues at present, does not require this additional source.

Anyway, if this amendment goes through, any time the provincial government decides it wants more money it will be able to raise the price of goods by three per cent.

All that will be done will be to fix things so that Albertans will pay more taxes to the extent of 3 per cent of all the money which they spend, and will be able to forget that they are doing this because the tax will not show on their invoices or sales slips.

When this tax goes into effect, up goes the cost of living.

If you or any other Albertan have any intention of protesting against the increase in the cost of living which this tax will bring, now is the time to complain.

Farm Labor Scarcity

There is a growing scarcity of farm labor in Alberta mainly due to the higher wages and shorter hours for city workers, and the provision of workmen's compensation, medical aid, pension payments and unemployment insurance. Farm workers do not qualify for such benefits.

O. S. Longman, provincial deputy minister of agriculture, says as a consequence of the tight farm labor situation farmers are going in more for wheat production and the production of grass-fed cattle which requires a minimum of labor. There is a downward trend in dairying, hog production and poultry production on Alberta farms.

Mr. Longman mentioned that in 1949 city workers in Alberta received $7,600,000 from unemployment insurance and the workmen's compensation board.

The Home and School

Provincial gathering of the Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations in Edmonton this week raises an opportunity to ask parents of school children whether they know the teachers of their children and the officials that operate our schools.

It might be worthwhile to mention the importance of the Home and School Association, an organization which closely identifies itself with the cause of education here. This organization can be a potent force in building public support for Alberta education.

We have no hesitation in advising parents of pupils attending the public schools to join the HSA, to attend its meetings and to co-operate with other parents in keeping informed about our school system and in persuading the public to give liberal financial support to build the best possible school system.

Note and Comment

It often happens that men who talk too much, think too little.

What has happened to the proposed Trans-Canada highway? No project is more urgently needed than this for the defence of the nation.

If Conscription Comes

(From Toronto Daily Star)

Reassuring statements on the subject of military conscription have been made by two members of the federal government since the current session of parliament began. Early in the session Prime Minister St. Laurent asserted that compulsory military service will be considered "strictly on its merits" and not on any racial or religious basis. A few days ago Milton Gregg, V.C. minister of labor, stated that he would never be a party to legislation that created two classes of service men, one of them popularly (or unpopularly) known as "zombied" in the last war.

Mr. Gregg made it clear that his pronouncement was a personal one and as such does not commit the government. Though Mr. Gregg occupies the labor portfolio, he has a splendid record of service in both world wars and it can be taken for granted that his advice on general recruiting policies carries considerable weight in the cabinet. It is perhaps unlikely that, at this critical time, he would make any public statement on military matters which would be out of line with government thinking and intentions. It may be thought, therefore, that if conscription becomes necessary in Canada it will be invoked without any limitations as to the areas in which draftees may be required to serve.

Now, however, the Social Credit group has taken the stand that compulsory military service is advisable now and the Social Creditors advocated it only for the reserve forces.

Their motion was voted down by 146-15 in parliament. Outside the Social Credit ranks it won the support of only four Progressive Conservative members and one Independent. Aside from the near-unanimity on the question, the most noteworthy feature of the debate was the lack of acrimonious exchanges and accusations which the subject would certainly have evoked only a few years ago.

At the outset of World War II, the Mackenzie King government felt it necessary in the interests of national unity in the conflict to give its assurance that conscription would not be imposed. As the war picture darkened, a plebiscite was held on the question, the result releasing the government from its "no conscription" pledge. Compulsory service for home defence was inaugurated in 1944, draftees were sent overseas, an infantry reinforcement, a cabin crew, was recruited and it was freely admitted that the government had lost any chance of ever carrying Quebec province again. Instead, the Liberals won Quebec by big margins in the next two general elections.

The evidence is mounting that conscription is no longer a serious disruptive issue. This augurs well for a greater degree of national unity than ever before in meeting the heavy tasks imposed by menacing world conditions. There is every reason to hope that the ideal of a truly united Canada, to which Laurier and King dedicated their lives, may be realized during the term of the administration headed by their political heir, Louis St. Laurent.

Do We Need More Rain?

Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Research Laboratories in Schenectady, New York, is convinced that man can create artificial weather.

Dr. Langmuir has been successful in producing rain on many occasions. Best results were obtained in a test in New Mexico in the summer of 1949. He said: "We started at 5:30 a.m., using a smoke generator with burnt charcoal pellets, impregnated with silver iodide. At 10:10 a.m. the first flash of lightning appeared. By the end of the day we had worked 13 hours and used $13.40 of the compound and produced 320 billion gallons of rain."

The basic idea in Dr. Langmuir's rain-making is to select clouds that are "super-cooled" to below zero temperatures and that also contain appreciable amounts of water in the form of droplets too tiny to freeze. If enough of these droplets merge at one place they freeze solid and fall to earth as rain or snow, depending on weather conditions.

To produce this effect, particles of dry ice and silver iodide are used. The particles serve as "seed" to which water droplets will attach themselves until enough gather to form ice crystals. Theoretically the crystals will "trigger" an atmospheric chain reaction that will produce legions of other crystals.

HANDS ACROSS THE BORDER

Dear Sir—A lot of U.S. people are saying they would be sorry if there should be any worsening of Canada-U.S. relations as a result of a recent speech by our Mike Pearson. The U.S. shouldn't worry about anything like that; practically all of us are with the U.S.A. 100 per cent. No other two countries are as alike as we are. We dress alike, talk alike, hear the same radio programs, see the same movies, and visit one another by the millions. It just makes me laugh when some official decides to worry about our being anything but friends. Why is that U.S.-Canada border is the most useless thing in the world and always will be.

COST OF LIVING

Dear Sir—Ottawa federal ministers are saying food prices rose only half a point or so in March. Just Because Girls 'Cute' They Shouldn't Be On Stage Dancing Teacher Warns

CALGARY.—(BUP)—Just because little girls look "cute" in fluffy dancing costumes doesn't mean they should be on the stage, according to a Canadian dancing teacher who ought to know.

Gweneth Lloyd, one of the founders of the Winnipeg ballet, gave parents some advice on what their attitude should be toward the dancing lessons of their young offspring.

"Parents who send their little Susie to dancing school just to see her strutting her stuff in a dance recital have the wrong idea about dancing," she said. "Dancing should be studied for its own sake and for its educational value, and not necessarily for performance."

Miss Lloyd remarked that in 15 years of teaching in Canada, she had never held a recital.

She described dancing as important to a child's development because it develops self-confidence, rhythm and musical appreciation.

The study of different types of dances is followed naturally by geography and other studies and makes learning fascinating and easier, she said.

As for putting small children on the stage, Miss Lloyd said the theatre is for the best only and the public would never learn to appreciate good dancing "as long as inadequately trained performers are allowed to play."

Miss Lloyd commented: "There

GREEN THUMBS OR A HOBBY

Gardening may be for pleasure or food. It matters little what our reason is for digging the soil, among shrubs, flowers or just common spuds. We may wear gloves and get a little backache because our thumbs are not green. To all it will mean getting close to nature. Life starts earlier anew in April. The first pussy willows have been on our window sill for some days past. The fence lines are looking green. For weeks we have been going over beautifully colored catalogues. The bright delicate colors of the sweet pea, peony, gladiolus, marigold, tulip, daffodil, etc., have already been reflected in our eyes. The smooth shape of the juicy vegetables we are going to harvest make our mouths water.

The wild prairie rose, "Ross acicularis," Alberta's floral emblem, decorates the front of a small folder. It is put out by The Alberta Horticultural Advisory Committee. The folder in its booklet recommends the varieties of fruit, shrubs, trees, vegetables or flowers that will do best in this zone. Early, medium or late, you have your choice. It will tell those best suited for storage and freezing as well as prize winning. It is a valuable guide for all, glove covered hands or those with green thumbs.

Recommendations for planting trees and shrubs, tell when to plant, preferably spring. Keep roots moist and protected from wind and sun until planted. Dig holes large enough to hold roots without cramping, and permit plants to be slightly deeper than before. In sandy or dry soil use liberal amounts of water. Soft water always gives better results. Press the soil firmly to eliminate spaces which cause drying out of roots. Leave a small depression for water.

Annual or perennial flowers, those suited for border or rock gardens, like most your choice. There are so many varieties of suitable flowers, doubles, singles, or Japanese Peonies. Miniature, pompons or exhibition dahlias are listed in all shades. Iris, gladiolus with delicate shades of color will tempt your resources.

Those flowers with behavior unknown, trial, fair or known to be suitable, are so clear to the green thumbs, but somewhat confusing to the hands with gloves on. At the fall flower and vegetable show the best will be marked with the red tag. Some gardeners like to show what they have grown, others like to have them around the home.

The LIGHTER SIDE

Fair Enough

"I've got a rather distasteful job," remarked the British genealogist. "A woman employed me to look up her family tree, and I've got to inform her that one of her relatives was electrocuted for murder in America."

"I'm not too sure about that," replied his friend. "Just write that the man occupied the chair of applied electricity at one of America's public institutions."

Geatle Hint

Peter was playing at Jimmy Brown's house. When it was time to go home it started to rain. Mrs. Brown offered to lend him Jimmy's raincoat.

"Don't take so much trouble, Mrs. Brown," said Peter, politely. "I'm sure your mother would do a much for Jimmy," she replied.

"My mother would do more," said Peter. "She'd ask Jimmy to stay for supper."

Nobody

The amateur burglar, stumbling into the bedroom, knocked over a chair with a crash, awakening the nervous householder, who asked:

"Who's there?" "It's nobody," said the intruder softly.

"Who else?" pursued the alarmed gentleman. "Only the cat. You forgot to put it out."

It Worked

"I've decided on a name for baby," said the young mother. "I shall call her Nanette."

Her husband thought it was an awful name to give a girl, but being a very tactful fellow, he did not object.

"Splendid!" he said, cheerfully. "The first girl I ever loved was called Nanette, and the name will revive pleasant memories!"

There was a brief silence, then: "Well, I'll name her Mary, after my mother," said the young wife firmly.

Will — "There goes that man Wombats! He's a financial wizard."

Bill — "How come? He doesn't look it!"

Will — "He's got a $10.14 payment on his account in a closed bank three months ago, and his wife hasn't found it out yet."

LETTER TO LOUISA

Wife Wants Privilege Of Choosing Own Clothes

Dear Louisa—My husband is very critical of my clothes. Before I buy a hat or dress I have to bring them home for his approval, or he doesn't like it one bit.

Some of the things he likes I can't abide, so I go around wearing unbemitting clothes just to please him.

Doesn't you think I should have the privilege of choosing my own clothes?

WIFE

Answer: I think every woman and every man should have the right to choose her or his clothes and enjoy wearing what they like. Most of us like to wear clothes that our better halves like, but if it comes to the place where we have to wear something we dislike or something he doesn't care for, then I feel sure that the choice should lie with the person wearing the clothes.

This is a funny old world and the male population seems to be divided up into just two parts — those who pay attention to their wives' clothes and those who pay too much attention to them. The wives of each set complain, so I suppose it is about six of one and half a dozen of the other.

Try to strike a happy medium with your clothes and get things that you both like.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa—I have a wife who talks too much. She chatters incessantly and never says anything of importance. All the time I am reading or listening to the radio, she is asking questions or shouting some gossip at me.

What can I do to slow her down without hurting her feelings?

"MERE MAN."

Answer: You probably see lots of people during the day and by the time night comes, you have heard all the news and exchanged views with half a dozen people.

You are busy on the other hand, and have been busy at home all day with no one to talk with and only the babies for company. Consequently, by the time you come in she is all set for a nice chatty evening, while all you are looking for is peace and rest for a worried mind.

The best solution to such a problem would be for you to make it a plan to devote part of the evening to her and claim a part for yourself. Don't grab the paper or turn on the radio the minute you get in the house. Tell her the news and listen to what she has to say. Let her know that you want to read the paper and hear your favorite programs, but that you are also interested in her.

You probably found her vivacity one of her main attractions before you were married so naturally she thinks you still enjoy some lively conversation. And don't turn grumpy or you may turn her off all the time, you doubtless miss her talkativeness.

Try to get together on this problem by putting yourself in the other fellow's shoes.

LOUISA.

Canada's Census to Mark Changes In Agriculture

In the 1951 Census of Agriculture, which will be taken in June, enumerators will gather statistical data from farmers throughout Canada which will be used in measuring the changes that have occurred in Canadian agriculture since the last all-Canada census in 1941.

The data will also be used to establish a new base or "benchmark" for the annual estimates of field and forage crops published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

As in the past, census enumerators will visit each individual farmer to assist in the completion of the schedule. The Bureau will make provision for farmers to obtain advance copies of the schedule. This will enable farmers to fill in as much of the information as possible before the enumerator calls, thus saving the time of both farmers and enumerators.

Due mainly to the opening to settlement and later development of the prairie lands there has been a sharp increase in the acreage devoted to field crops in Canada in the past 50 years, according to census data and annual acreage estimates. The Census of 1901 placed the area under field crops at 19,800,000 acres. In 1941 the figure had risen to 55,800,000 acres, and in 1950 the estimated total was in the close neighborhood of 62,000,000 acres.

Acreage devoted to wheat showed the most significant gain in actual area, rising from 4,225,000 in 1900 to 21,950,000 in 1941, and an estimated total of 27,021,000 in 1950. Oats increased from 6,300,000 in 1900 to 11,000,000 in 1941, and 11,575,000 in 1950. Barley rose from $72,000 to 5,312,000 in 1941, and 6,625,000 in 1950, and rye from 177,000 to 929,000 in 1941, and 1,168,000 in 1950. The flaxseed advanced from 23,000 in 1900 to an estimated 1950 total of 547,000.

710 Animals Sold At Calgary Bull Sale

U of A Support Drive For Federal Aid to Education

Campaign for federal grants to Canadian universities is being supported by the University of Alberta, President Andrew Stewart said this week.

But even if the university is successful in getting a grant from the federal government it does not mean there will be a reduction in the new higher fees, he warned.

Tuition fees were recently boosted 20 per cent at U of A. Boost will give the university about $100,000 additional income, the president said.

The boost was made with reluctance, he added, but he could not promise a reduction in fees if a grant comes through.

Average student tuition at the university is about $180.

"We're very interested in federal aid to education," Prof. Stewart said, "and we're supporting the national campaign for its campaign for federal assistance."

The University of Alberta is relatively well off in comparison to some universities, he said.

Rising costs may make it necessary

OIL MAKES A COUNTRY STRONG

"SURE...I WAS HERE WHEN IT STARTED!"

You can bet Jimmie was on hand when the first Imperial drilling crew turned up at the farm gate. And he's been an untiring fence post superintendent ever since. But that's not all—he's short lifetime he's lived enough years to see the growth of a new major industry. Less than five years ago Canada's oil producing industry was far from robust. Our oil fields were dwindling and produced only one barrel in every 10 we used.

Today only eight countries in the world are known to have larger oil reserves than Canada. And production this year is expected to meet about one-third of our needs.

Every barrel of this "home grown" crude lessens our dependence on other countries and brings us a step closer to self-sufficiency in oil. With oil increasingly important to our daily life in peace or war, any improvement in security of supply means new security for Jimmie and for all of us.

Canada's newest major industry gives promise of becoming one of her greatest.
